Old trough will get new home

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The old horse-watering trough from lower Main Street is headed for a new home on the Bethel town common.

The town selectmen last week gave unanimous approval to a relocation plan proposed by the Historic Preservation Committee of the Bethel Historical Society. The plan calls for installing the trough on a new, grassy triangle of the common, at the head of Mill Hill.

The hitching posts removed from lower Main Street would also be installed on the triangle, probably along a new sidewalk that will separate it from the main body of the common.

The triangle in question does not yet exist, but is part of the common redesign included this summer's Phase 3 Downtown Revitalization work.

Preservation Committee member Sally Taylor presented the plan to the selectmen at their regular meeting last week.

Taylor said the head of Mill Hill by the common currently gets little pedestrian traffic, but she has spent time there and feels that once renovations are complete it could be a very attractive spot for people to stroll.

Brew pub must reapply

By WENDY HANSCOM

Bethel planners ruled last week that the addition of an outdoor bandstand at the Sunday River Brewing Co. means the site use has changed and brewery developers must undergo another site plan review.

Developer Heine Merrill, who represented the brewery owners at Wednesday's planning board meeting, asked the board to simply amend the brewery's site plan.

But Planning Board member Don Feeney said the addition of the bandstand affects 14 of the site plan ordinance's 22 performance standards, which constitutes a change of use.

Planners also said a public hearing on the modified site plan will likely be called.

A public hearing was also held when the restaurant and brewery was originally approved.

"Those people were really concerned about you putting entertainment outside and you guaranteed those people that it wouldn't happen," Feeney said.

"Going ahead and building (the bandstand) was clearly in violation of the site permit," planner Dennis Doyen said.

"I don't think we have a problem with going through the process," Merrill said. "It should have probably been done in the first place."

Summer business brisk

"The weather was better and that always helps. If the weather is cold, the tourists feel cold and lousy and they don't shop."

ELLEN WHITNEY

By WENDY HANSCOM

Labor Day is passed and most of our summer visitors have returned home, but they have left behind some smiling local business owners.

During the summer, the visitors paddled the Androscoggin, hiked the Appalachian Trail, played golf, explored the mountains and lakes, attended NTL labs--and spent money.

Everyone agrees the weather was great, and good weather seems to mean good business.

There was also a hint that the recession may be ebbing, and that more people are considering the Bethel-area as a vacation destination.

"We had an outstanding summer--a 15 to 20 percent increase in our business," said Bethel Inn owner Dick Rasor. "One of the factors driving it was our new golf school, now in its second year, which drew 500 people from all over the United States and Canada. It was a record summer for us. We've invested a lot of money in the golf course and it's paying off."

At the Sudbury Inn, manager Jack Cronin agreed. "We were pleased with the summer traffic. There was more international traffic than we usually receive. People found out this area has a lot to offer, in regards to Grafton Notch, paddling the Androscoggin River, as well as great dining."

Cronin said the inn had more Canadian traffic than ever. "It's becoming a destination in between Toronto, Ontario and Ottawa to the Maritime provinces," he said. "People are staying a few days and looking around."

Tom Remington at the River View Motel said he also saw more Canadian traffic.

"We were about 10 percent ahead of last summer," Remington said. "Our Canadian visits were up over last year. Last year, Canadians were about non-existent, but they came back some this year and that's encouraging."

The Sunday River Ski Resort and the Bethel IGA also reported having their best summer ever.

"Mountain biking year-to-date is up about 73 percent," said Sunday River spokesman Skip King. "We expect to set some weekend records this fall."

"We had the best summer ever," said IGA owner Carl Glidden. "I really didn't expect it. The weather every weekend was perfect."

Grocery sales were also up at the Locke Mills Shurline. "We had a real good summer," Assistant Manager Todd Swan said. "We beat quite a few of last year's totals."

Rick Breaux said his ice cream/pizza shop business was helped by the warm, sunny weather.

"We did well," Breaux said. "We were up over last year. The better weather helped us out. The better the weather, the more often local people come out. We also seemed to have more out-of-state cars in the parking lot."

Shoppers also spent more money at Maine Line Products.

Station scheme builds up steam

Town volunteers sought; project may expand to 50+ acres, with completely rerouted Cross St.

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Negotiations appear to be moving forward on a number of fronts for the proposed Victoria Station commercial development on Cross Street.

The Bethel Board of Selectmen is calling for a committee of volunteers to study the town's options in regard to the proposed development; and discussions have been reopened between the developers and Danny Davis, who owns a 16-acre Cross Street parcel the developers had initially hoped to include in the project.

Developer Heine Merrill said that if an agreement can be reached with Davis, the project could be expanded to its original outlines, which included a totally relocated Cross Street and the creation of a arrangements for relocating the town facilities, but also agreements about sewer and water system charges, and financing options for the infrastructure upgrades that are expected to follow from the project.

Possible tax credits are also likely to be on the table.

Any deal must ultimately be approved by voters at a Town Meeting.

Town Manager Madeleine Henley said the new committee will be asked to look at both the broad picture (the project's long-term financial impact on the town) and at specifics such as siting options for the relocated town facilities, and what mix of financing options would allow the town to leverage the greatest benefit from the (Re)name that station

The public has been invited to come up with a new name for the proposed Victoria Station project.

Developer Heine Merrill has announced a contest to select a new name for the railroad station that will be the heart of, and theme for, the Cross Street project.

"We hope to come up with a name that gives people a location on Planet Earth that they can relate to," Merrill said.

Details of the contest are now being worked out, he said, and will be announced soon.

300- to 500-foot-wide park in the corridor between the road and the river.

The town selectmen have also been negotiating with Merrill in executive session since the project was announced in July. They are now asking for seven citizens to publicly examine the impact the project would have on the town, and to come up with a set of recommendations by Nov. 1.

One key element in the $25 million development package is the town's willingness to sell a 6.2 acre parcel of land on Cross Street.

Merrill has termed the parcel, currently the site of the town's salt-sand pile and highway and ambulance garages, "absolutely essential to the success of the project."

If the town does eventually agree to sell the parcel, the deal is likely to be a complex one--involving not only a purchase price and project. Given the time constraints, the committee's work is likely to be brief but intense, she said.

Anyone wishing to volunteer is asked to fill out a brief form available in the Town Office. The forms must be completed by 5 p.m. Monday, Sept. 20. The selectmen hope to make appointments at their regularly scheduled meeting later that evening.

Discussions on other fronts

In addition to negotiating with the town and Davis, Merrill said he has also been meeting with a several private and governmental bodies that would need to play a role in the complex project.

He claims the response on all fronts, including the Maine Department of Transportation and the St. Lawrence and Atlantic

Board rejects teachers' Sat. detention petition

By WENDY HANSCOM

The SAD44 School Board Monday night rejected a petition from high school teachers requesting the reinstatement of Saturday detention. During this year's school budget process the money to pay teachers for monitoring Saturday detention was eliminated.

High School Principal Theodore Davis and Assistant Principal Carroll Higgins presented the petition, which was not received kindly by the board.

"I'm appalled at the thought of Saturday detention," Bethel director Merton Brown said. "This board removed Saturday detention from the budget. To come back and ask for it back is the wrong approach. We have a principal and assistant principal that are salaried employees. If they feel it is important, then they should volunteer to cover at no cost to the district."

Several directors asked why Saturday detention was not campaigned for harder during the spring budget process.

"I think the teachers didn't realize how useful it was until they didn't have it this fall," Davis said. "It makes parents more fully aware of

GREENSTOCK FEES UNFAIR

To the Editor:

Greenwood/Woodstock residents beware—the new stump dump fees are out.

Besides the new rate increases, there is a new ruling that the fee doubles for anyone who hauls debris for hire. Why are some residents, because they're elderly, don't own a pick-up or for whatever reason don't have the capabilities of getting their debris to the dump, being penalized because they have to hire someone to do it for them?

For example: The fee for my six wheel, one-ton truck is $50/load of brown goods. If I do it for hire, someone else debris not of my own, the fee doubles—$100. Obviously the hauler can't absorb these costs and must be passed on to the resident. On top of that you tack on my labor and truck expenses, the cost could come to $125 or more. How many people do you know can afford that just to haul away a truck load? I can't think of anyone. By the way, there are new fees for pick-up loads, too.

The problem is occurring now and it's going to get worse. People just don't have the money to afford these outrageous fees and they're going to start, or continue, to leave it alongside the road, some gravel pit or start small dumps behind the homes. This really makes sense doesn't it?

Current plans call for a construction of a bituminous sidewalk to separate the common and the new triangle, but Taylor said the Historical Society would be willing to try to raise enough money to replace the tar with bricks.

The Bethel Rotary is also interested in helping out with the project, she said.

The selectmen agreed that the money the town has budgeted for the tar sidewalk could be put toward the cost of bricks, if the balance of the funds could be raised privately.

Other business

Also last week, the selectmen set FY94 transfer station fees for Hanover and Newry. Hanover will pay $22,783; Newry (which deposits only bulky wastes and white goods at the Bethel station—not household waste) will be charged $3,404.

They also scheduled a workshop

But it's going to happen. The roads and homes of our community are going to look disgusting. So then what—there goes our property values. The committee is attempting to recoup the cost of operating the dump on fees alone and you just can't do it.

I'm not hiding any skeletons in any closet to the fact that I'm one of many who do light hauling of debris for a living. My main objection is that I feel it's totally unfair for the residents to have to pay this surcharge just because they don't have the capacity to haul away the exact same material themselves.

So before you hire someone to haul off your brown goods, mattress or whatever be sure and have that person explain the new fees to you, or better yet, call or ask the Solid Waste Committee members to explain the reasoning behind these new rates and especially the rationale behind this double the fee for hire rate. If you don't know the members telephone numbers, I'm sure if you stop by the town office they would be more than happy to give them to you.

The committee has got to come up with something different—they aren't solving the problem, they're creating one.

DECONTAMINATION—Men and equipment from Kennagh Excavating of East Waterford remove soil contaminated by one of the four underground fuel tanks discovered on the site of the burned out Hometown Bakery and Children's Dance Theater of Bethel. The work is being managed by the state Department of Environmental Protection, but must eventually be paid for by property owner Yvonne Bastionelli of Massachusetts—even though the tanks were installed prior to Bastionelli's purchase of the property. Sue Burnham, manager of the nearby Mother's Restaurant, praised the work crews for taking pains not to impede client traffic into and out of the restaurant.

Railroad, has been extremely positive.

In fact, the developers aren't waiting for construction to begin before promoting the project in its target markets—they hope to have chartered ski trains arriving in Bethel this winter from Montreal, Canada, and perhaps others from the Greater Portland area.

If all goes well, construction work on the project will begin in 1995, Merrill said.

From the Bethel Police log:

Pro's equipment mysteriously returns

Allen Connors recently reported that stereo equipment stolen from his vehicle on July 13 was returned to his desk at the Bethel Inn with a note simply stating "your welcome."

Last Tuesday, a West Bethel Road resident told police that a fanny-pack containing a 35mm camera was stolen from his vehicle, while he was watching fireworks at the Bethel Inn.

Sunday, the Four Seasons Inn owner reported that since last month's fire, her building has been broken into several times. She asked police to check the area frequently.

Tuesday morning, police stood by while Central Maine Power crews removed downed wires from the Flat Road.

A Death Too Soon

By MIKE BROWN

I was deeply saddened by the death of Lorraine Tedeschi.

Her death is most puzzling. Police findings were that Lorraine purchased a handgun and the next day drove to a secluded mountain road in Lincolnville and shot herself twice. She died in her locked car beside the hiking trail where she so often walked her beloved pets. She was found by her husband, Thomas. The next day would have been Lorraine's 41st birthday.

Police say that she left two suicide notes which are private and may provide some answers to this tragedy. Even the state medical examiner who ruled her death a suicide said "there may always be public questions about her death because of the two gunshots to her body."

Lorraine was Maine's foremost activist for animal rights. Her life seemed completely absorbed in what she called the "imbalance between hunters and the majority—non-hunters." Her passion for wild, and hunted animals in particular, was skewed by the omnipotent blood sports industry as an attempt to outlaw all guns and hunting.

I covered her testimony at the State House on numerous occasions as she spoke gently and unemotionally on proposed legislation that would "make the woods and private property safe and private again." At each hearing she was rudely intimidated by NRA lobbyists, blood sports columnists/writers and hunting club members.

Over the years I had many phone conversations and private correspondence with Lorraine. I wrote a column one time suggesting that Maine should become the nation's first all-game sanctuary, transferring all of its hunting resources to its inland and marine sports fishery. What revenue was lost from blood sports would be covered by bountiful non-consumptive wildlife tourism and the attractiveness of the best fishing state in the country.

Lorraine responded by phone and letter wondering if I was being facetious or was writing with a "twinkle in my eye." I said I wrote with desperate hope knowing that to challenge the constitutions and Bubba manhood at the same time was as impossible as threading the eye of a needle with a bull moose.

I explained that I had been a hunter, that I knew the thrill of the hunt, the camaraderie of the chase, but as I became older I questioned that killing need in my life. I began to look at wild animals in the sense of their fascinating finished intelligence and wondered why unfinished man was bent on destroying it.

She agreed and more. But I never joined her many organizations such as Non-hunters Rights Alliance which shooters labeled "Bambi Boobs" even when the NHRA organizational articles did not propose an outright ban on hunting or a citizen's right to bear arms. Lorraine, NHRA's founder, only desired "balance to political policies that have given too much weight, and shown unreasonable favoritism, to the sport of hunting."

Lorraine faced an industry Goliath and she knew it. Legislators denied her proposed legislation for "reverse posting," that is, hunting on private property was prohibited unless it was posted with permission to hunt. Down went her legislative initiatives increasing distances from dwellings for the discharge of firearms, firing from non-paved roads, stricter licensing and training for hunters.

She was virtually ignored by the media, especially the daily newspapers, which devote multiple pages each day to the special interests of hunting/sports and the advertising revenue it generates.

But how sadly ironic that Lorraine should choose to die by the very violence she abhorred against animal life. Perhaps (and who will ever know her fatal thoughts?) she did become overwhelmed by her cause. She died beside a mountain which was symbolic of her fight against insurmountable odds.

And then again, who will ever know? Perhaps her sacrifice death was her most precious final gift to the world she could erect in her odyssey ever toward a more compassionate world.

In one of her last personal letters to me she wrote, "I hope that I can live to see the day wildlife can live without the threats of human predation."

She did not—but all God's creatures will miss Lorraine Tedeschi.

We're fully aware we violated the site plan or whatever applies here."

Merrill is scheduled to present the updated site plan application at the planning board's Sept 22, meeting.

Gateway

Developer Carl Hansen of Bethel also presented plans last week for the Gateway building at the site of the former Martha's Restaurant.

Hansen said he plans to build a modern cedar home, which will eventually house his office, the Bethel Chamber of Commerce and another small business.

The old restaurant building would be razed after the new building is complete, Hansen said.

The board asked Hansen to return with detailed landscaping plans. The Code Enforcement Officer will also inspect the site to determine if some fill is needed in a back portion of the property to lift the entire lot out of the flood plain.

(In a related matter last week, the town selectmen unanimously rejected Hansen's request that he be allowed to use for his setback requirement 15 feet of a dead-end right of way between the Martha's property and an abutting piece of land owned by the town. The selectmen had earlier rejected a proposal by Hansen to purchase the abutting parcel.)

CPS drainage ditch too deep

Planning board assistant Nancy Schlieper told the board last week that a reconstructed drainage ditch at the Crescent Park School is too deep and the rocks lining it are too large.

The ditch is located near the school's border with Bethel Park Apartments. Water runoff plans called for a shallower ditch lined with six to nine inch rocks, Schlieper said.

Instead the ditch is too deep, and is lined with rocks up to 16 inches in diameter some with sharp and/or pointed edges, she said.

"If a child got pushed," Schlieper said, "someone could get killed in that ditch. It's pretty dangerous looking."

Schlieper said the placement of the ditch has also wiped out most of the path between Bethel Park Apartments and the school.

Small changes in Greenwood Woodstock tax

By WENDY HANSCOM

Greenwood's mill rate has been steady for the third year in a row while in neighboring Woodstock the mill rate is up just 3 mills.

Greenwood Selectmen Bartlett said a half-million in new town valuation helped the town's mill rate at 13.8 other year.

At that rate, the town tax on a house assessed at $50,000 would be approximately $690 a year.

Woodstock school tax

Woodstock Town Manager Maxfield told selectmen last week the town's mill rate rose from 17.9.

Maxfield gave the following reasons why the mill rate rose slightly:

- less money from the state growth reimbursement program;
- a drop in personal property taxes largely as a result of the closing of the Boiler Room Restaurant.

- $32,582 more this year for SAD44.

At the new rate, on a house assessed at $50,000 would be about $895 per year. This is a decrease of approximately $200 a year for the $50,000-homeowner.

Small change in Greenwood, Woodstock taxes

By WENDY HANSCOM

Greenwood's mill rate has held steady for the third year in a row, while in neighboring Woodstock the mill rate is up just .3 mills.

Greenwood Selectmen Marie Bartlett said a half-million dollars in new town valuation helped keep the town's mill rate at 13.8 for another year.

At that rate, the town taxes on a house assessed at $50,000 would be approximately $690 a year.

Woodstock school tax up

Woodstock Town Manager Vern Maxfield told selectmen last week the town's mill rate rose from 17.6 to 17.9.

Maxfield gave the following three reasons why the mill rate is up slightly:

- less money from the state's tree growth reimbursement program.
- a drop in personal property taxes, largely as a result of the closing of the Boiler Room Restaurant.
- $32,582 more this year going to SAD44.

At the new rate, on a house assessed at $50,000 would be taxed about $895 per year. This is an increase of approximately $15 per year for the $50,000-homeowner.

New biz blooms

Summer was also fruitful for growing businesses. Hans Trupp, co-owner of Sunday

APPLE BLOSSOM TIME IN SEPTEMBER?—Avery Angevine of Bethel has an apple tree that seems a bit confused. It's blossomed and bearing fruit at the same time. Here Angevine holds one of the 10-year-old tree's drop apples next to a bud. Angevine said he planted four other trees at the same time this one was planted and none of them have mixed up the season. Barbara Murphy at the Oxford County Extension Office said apples trees do sometimes blossom and bear fruit at the same time, but it's very rare, and often the result of severe stress.

Business

"We had a better summer than last summer," Ellen Whitney said. "We had plenty of people. We felt the weather was better and that always helps. If the weather is cold, then the tourists feel cold and lousy and they don't shop."

"We did very good," said #1 and Telstar video store owner Karen Wight. "They rented more tapes and bought more merchandise. It's nice to see the recession easing out. Things are getting back to normal."

Buying a piece of Bethel

Local real estate was a hot item over the summer.

"We have had more sales since the first of July than in all 12 months last year," said Paula Gillies at Main Street Realty. "People driving through to Canada, New Hampshire and Vermont are stopping to take a look around. I think the coast is getting crowded enough so that people are looking for an alternative. People are starting to realize the only water in Maine isn't at the ocean."

Wendy Penley of Mahosuc Realty was similarly pleased. "Sales were nuts and are still nuts," she said. "It's been incredibly busy. Lower interest rates over a long period of time are helping and properties have been coming down to a more reasonable level."

Mary Jo Kennett of Kennett Realty said, "We have done an absolutely fabulous business in sales. We have about 20 properties in contract now and sales are going great. We have to work hard—advertise and sell the area—but when they come they are serious buyers."

River Brewing Co. said business was brisk.

"This area is beginning to be a little more appreciative for what it has to offer recreationally," Trupp said. "People have more space to move around. Our local advertising is paying off and we're becoming a destination location. We've had people coming in from pretty far away and bringing people with them, so we're bringing business into the area."

At the Java House on lower Main Street, employee Julie Evans said, "We did better than we expected. We thought this would be our slow time, but it was great."

But Rhea Gibbs at the China Gem said business was on-again, off-again.

"It was either slow or fast," Gibbs said. "It came in pockets. Some weeks were good and others were down. I couldn't tell you why some weeks were busier than others."

Could it be better?

Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Robin Zinchuk said in-town business might have been even better if the Bethel village had not been torn up for another sewer construction project.

"The construction really hurt," Zinchuk said. "People pulling off the overpass saw that mess on Church Street and took the road out. The same with the Mill Hill access. I think things picked up in August. Some people are still waiting for the economy to turn. It was hot, and people were looking for water. We have water at the ponds, the Sunday River and Step Falls, but it's a tough thing to sell."

The state budget for pitching Vacationland is nearly doubling this year, according to Zinchuk.

In 1992-93, the state spent approximately $1.6 million promoting Maine, Zinchuk said. That amount was 48th in the United States, she said.

In 1993-94, various tourism supporters will be vying for over $3 million in state funds, according to Zinchuk.

The tourism industry has promised that the state will make the $3 million back in sales tax, she said.

"The Maine Lake and Mountains Tourism Council is very keenly aware we need to position ourselves well and apply for the money," said Zinchuk, who is president of the council. "It's not just going to come to us. Nobody in Augusta is going to lobby for us. The people on the coast have been much better at getting in Augusta's face all the time. The competition for the money is fierce."

CHRISTIAN WOMEN UNITED

The monthly meeting of the Christian Women United will be held at the Country Way Restaurant in So. Paris on Tuesday, Sept. 21. The luncheon will be served at 11:30 a.m.

The speaker for the day will be Sandy Ducey from Gray. Music will be furnished by Kathy Parsons.

Detention

some of the things their sons and daughters are doing. They have to bring in their sons and daughters and pick them up. They get much more involved then they would in an after-school detention or in-house suspension."

Davis said he could shuffle money around from a few accounts to pay approximately $900 needed to cover the three-hour Saturday detention this year.

"I think it's a good program," Hand said, "but for the petition to come around now—I'm asking the question 'Why didn't it come around this spring?' We shouldn't be looking to find money in accounts that were suppose to be bare-bones when we were voting on them this spring."

The board unanimously turned down the proposal.

Home-schoolers to play sports?

For the third meeting running, the board debated a home-schooling policy for the district.

This time around they reversed a previous (unanimous) vote and agreed (again unanimously) that home-schooled children can take part in middle and high school sports programs.

At their last meeting's the board had agreed to include home-schoolers in all of the district's activities except the middle and high school sports.

But Monday they eliminated that exemption.

"The handwriting is on the wall," said board chairman Margaret Hand. "(Free access) is going to be ordered by the state. Why don't we become leaders in the state and make it all inclusive. Then when the state writes the policy, we can tell them what works. It's our responsibility to offer these kids what we have."

Superintendent Ronald Jenkins said high and middle school administrators will work out the procedure for determining the scholastic eligibility of home-schooled students' sports participation.

The directors unanimously approved the revised home-schooling policy.

In order for it to become official policy, the board must vote in favor of the revised policy again at its next meeting, Sept. 27, 7:30 p.m. at the Woodstock School.

Middle school goes to five ranking periods

Monday evening, a group of middle school teachers described the school's change to five ranking periods instead of the traditional four.

The teachers said the extra ranking period will give teachers more contact with students' parents.

Middle school ranks this year will close on Oct. 22 and Dec. 22, 1993, and Feb. 18, April 15 and the last day of school, 1994.

In other business Monday night, the directors approved a list of substitute teachers and the fall slate Adult Education instructors.

The board also made the following personnel appointments: Pamela S. Bean, part-time speech clinician; Linda M. Smith, Telstar library aide; Linn Tripp, Woodstock food service worker; Wendy Ford, Woodstock Elementary School lead teacher and Stephanie Swan, health education coordinator.

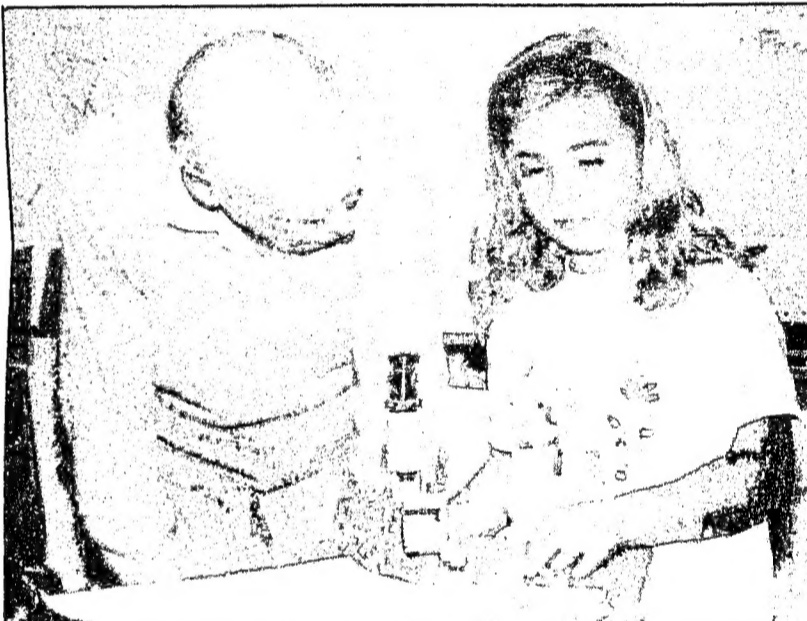

The board also accepted the resignation of bus driver Maurice Hart and posted the position.

Director Ray Harrington of Greenwood was absent from Monday night's meeting.

Bethel Director Cheryl Eliot has resigned from the board.

"I guess you could call it burnout," Eliot said last week. "I just don't feel with my increasing work load, I have the time to put into the job anymore."

Eliot's term is up next June. Bethel selectmen are asking anyone interesting in filling in until the next elections are held to contact the town office.

BACK TO BASICS—Crescent Park School fourth-grader Caroline Raymond and her grandfather Gilbert Carlson, a summer resident of Friendship, try to spot some single-celled life in a drop of local pond water. Carlson was one of scores of CPS grandparents and others who turned out for Grandparents' Day last Friday at the school.

Miss Cathy Langlois and friend from Manchester Center, Vt., spent a couple of days with her grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lowell, Sr. over the Labor Day Weekend.

Marie Lowell of Bethel was also a guest and returned to Vermont to spend a week with her cousin Cathy. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Cooper of Buckfield were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lowell, Sr.

Bill and Sylvia Wight had lunch with Dr. Alan and Sally Rich Dunn recently while they were vacationing at Middle Dam. Sally spent part of her early years with her father and step-mother Louise Dickinson Rich in that area.

The Newry Community Church Ladies Circle met Tuesday noon at Louise Tetley's residence with President Sylvia Wight opening the meeting, and Louise reading the devotion, "Windows of Gold."

Theresa Toti was a guest. Secretary Freda Robertson read the notes of the last meeting, and finances were brought up to date. It was voted to call up neighboring families to solicit or beg for donations of food for the food sale the 17th at the I.G.A., starting at 10 a.m., to benefit the Church. We appreciate all goods or money. Thank you. A lunch was enjoyed and dessert was served by the hostess. The next meeting will be at Sylvia Wight's on Oct. 4 at 12:30 p.m. Dues will be collected and election of officers will proceed. The meeting was adjourned. New members are always welcomed.

Theresa Toti of Rhode Island spent some time with me during the Labor Day weekend. The "Newry Bowling Gang" had other commitments last week... So they took a vacation. See you next week.

Happy Birthday to our friend Bea Lowell. "Is that a Birthday?? 'tis alas! too clear; 'tis but the funeral of the former year." Cheers...Hope and Happiness.

On Oct. 17, there will be a Hymn Sing at the Newry Community Church at about 5 p.m. Come one, come all and enjoy.

Were you good to your grandparents last Sunday? It was their day, you know. Were you good to your neighbors last Tuesday? It was their day, you know. My neighbors were very good to me lately...all kinds of vegetables from their gardens. God Bless them all.

Bea Lowell, Louise Tetley, Doris Parent, Irene Hadsfield and Freda Robertson, all members of the Bethel Senior Citizens, were in Locke Mills last Wednesday to enjoy a luncheon put on by the firemen at the Town Hall.

Ras and Karlene Bachelder, and the dog "Muffin" spent some time in Mars Hill where their son Aaron and family lives. They enjoyed the trip very much; it was the first time they had ever been there.

The Windy Valley Snowmobile Club will meet Sept. 16 at 7 p.m. at the Town Building. There will be election of officers and a membership drive.

Esther Davis gave the post office boxes and sign from So. Woodstock to the Historical Society. Evelyn Bean gave some items to the Society. Antiques are very important to any historical society, and they are wonderful for anyone to collect. The Historical Society points out that the study of the Ancient World is important in history. Rome, Greece, the Holy Land, Egypt, India, and China are all fascinating subjects to explore.

Franklin Grange No. 124 met on Monday evening for joint installation with West Paris. Wayne Sherman and his degree team installed the officers. Franklin Grange has the same officers with the exception of chaplain, who is now Laura Hutchins. A 6:30 supper was held before the meeting.

The Woodstock Senior Citizens met last Thursday with around 37 or 38 present. Any senior citizen member or guest who has not signed up to go on the foliage trip and noon dinner at Town & Country Inn, please call the president to make reservations.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hoyt and Beatrice Farnum visited Mr. and Mrs. Steve Hoover and Marybeth over the long weekend, to help celebrate Marybeth's fifth birthday.

Franklin Grange will meet on Sept. 20, with the meeting at 7:30 p.m.

Every Tuesday is Bryant Pond hour on Channel IV T.V. at 7 p.m. Ruth Tyler was a guest of her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. James Tyler, Rumford, on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Hathaway called on Mr. and Mrs. Harris Hathaway recently. Also at the Hathaways was their grandson Rey Jordan, Jr.

The brief rain that we have been getting since the beginning of September with plants and bushes, I am sure.

Around me, as I sit in my driveway, the wind is swift. A few leaves are just stood there with the march of the storm wind. When I moved toward the road, a toad hopped before me. How many other humpbacks were being aroused in cooler activity.

The downpour came. There was a curtain of rain, then the deluge. I watched from the garage short while the deluge. The wind lessened. But the night the rain fell and welcomed.

That day I walked to see if it had changed. It wasn't the same book spring time. Then the filled the air with low water gurgled and hissed. A few of us clearly how many rushing liquid sounds combine music of falling water.

The West Paris School is collecting Campbell's Soup labels again this year. Labels may be left at the school or given to some of the school children. Mary Lovejoy says that if you want to leave the labels with her she will see that the school gets them.

Glen Virge, who has been spending some time with the Archie Lovejoy family, returned to Boise, Idaho on Thursday. Mary Lovejoy and Kathleen Holden took him to the airport for his return home.

Mary Lovejoy made a dooryard call on Tammy Farnum of Bryant Pond on Sunday. She took her some zucchinis from their garden.

There will be dances at the West Paris Grange Hall on the first and second Saturdays of October. The Richard Felt Orchestra will be furnishing the music for the dances.

Greenwood City

By COLISTA MORGAN

The brief rain that we had at the beginning of September was a relief to plants and bushes, I am sure.

Around me, as I stood in the driveway, the wind accelerated swiftly. A few leaves scudded past. I just stood there with the stirring march of the storm wind in my ears. When I moved toward the garage, a toad hopped before me. This and how many other humble creatures were being aroused into new and cooler activity.

The downpour came with a rush. There was a curtaining of the landscape, then the deluge came, as I watched from the garage door. In a short while the deluge slackened. The wind lessened. But through the night the rain fell and was surely welcomed.

That day I walked to the brook to see if it had changed much. But it wasn't the same brook, as in the spring time. Then the high water filled the air with low music. The water gurgled and hissed, lispd and murmured. Few of us appreciate clearly how many rushing, bubbling, liquid sounds combine to form the music of falling water. A shelving rock of gray granite caused the music here.

It will probably be a couple of weeks before Jack Frost visits. The weather report does say cold spells are on the way. It's hard to believe that summer is over. But when I went out this morning I saw a big bumblebee crawling out of a jewel weed, where he had spent the night. He was stiff and slow and he crawled into the sun and just stayed there, waiting for the warmth to put life into his cold bloodstream again.

Those cold mornings are soon to be experienced by all of us.

I have many dear friends with whom I spend time, but Jean, from another state I see just once a year. We had a day together on September 2. It was like finding gold. I presume many of you have found gold.

"Was it under a shining mountain? Was it high in a gleaming castle, or deep in a sparking ocean?"

Have you just found gold by looking into someone's heart?

Gold makes you rich, but one kind of gold is worth more than all others. It isn't the gold you can spend, wear, or hold. It's the kind you find in a friend.

First you have to look for gold dust. Maybe you've seen it on the cheeks of someone smiling at you. Have you seen gold on helping hands, or lips that say, "You're a dear?"

Perhaps you've seen it on the shoes of someone, when you need someone near.

Some times gold dust doesn't show. Then you have to look closer and dig deeper. But if you believe that you'll find gold inside, chances are you will.

If you give up too soon, you may miss buried treasure.

It may take time to find gold, but it starts to shine, when you and a friend trade secret secrets or dream silently together, when you're together sharing, pleasing, caring, in sad and happy weather.

When you first see your smile on someone else's face, you've just discovered gold, for a friend is the most precious discovery of all.

You'll know that's true, when you know a friend has found gold in you.

There were many visitors and a busy time at the farm on Sunday. We missed Ann who was with friends in Greenville for the weekend.

Peter Tommila, the owner of the Hayes' farm is here from California for a visit.

Milton and Eleanor Inman were camping for the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. John Betts were in Portland and Portsmouth the first of the week.

Zilpha DiArenzo's daughter and family spent a week here with her. They are from Pennsylvania.

Agnes Gray School

By MARTA CLEMENTS

The only date that I have for the upcoming week is for the Parent Teacher Volunteer meeting that will take place on Tuesday, Sept. 21, at 6:30 in the Agnes Gray School library. From now on these volunteer meetings will be held on the first Tuesday of the month. So reserve those Tuesdays and plan to attend whenever you can. This group serves a variety of purposes. Volunteering in the classrooms and fundraising are only a part of all that is accomplished. Come and find out what is going on.

The fourth-, fifth- and sixth-graders will be observing an instrument demonstration from members of the junior high band on Thursday, Sept. 16. Children who are interested in playing an instrument will be bringing home forms and information for parents. Be looking for these papers. There will be a parent meeting for all interested parents and students announced on the forms.

The kindergartners and the first-graders have spent an educational day at the Oxford County Fair. Before attending the fair they learn about what they will be seeing and doing. The kindergarten children made faces of who is coming to the fair. The first-graders made a paper quilt with the squares showing the living and not living things found at the fair. Both of these will be on exhibition. Also from the first-grade; the class is learning about children from other countries. They are learning what flag they salute, what they wear, and how they get to school.

The second-grade is being welcomed to the "Big School." The children are working together cooperatively, and are learning the new phonic sound of n when it is spelled with gn or kn. Mrs. Merrill and Mrs. Mullen want to thank all the parents who came in this past week for a parent work night. Eleven volunteers appeared and cut, pasted, labeled, covered boxes, etc. In general they helped do whatever Mrs. Merrill asked them. What a big help.

The third-grade teacher gave me some mysterious news. In reading there is phonics review and FRED. In writing they have been brainstorming ideas, learning how to set up their papers and doing PENNY writing. The theme for this month is Family Album. In math they are working with patterns, pattern blocks and addition facts. Mr. Burke would like to see each child reading at home for 15 minutes daily. For each 15 minutes they have a circle to fill in. It is in their homework folder. What is going to happen when they fill in all their circles?

The fourth-graders are beginning the year with their Maine Studies. Mr. Litchfield is reading Don Fendler's "Lost on a Mountain in Maine" to the class. The boys and girls are reading a story called Jumanji and are writing stories about Jumanji. In math they are working with estimation activities and in science they are studying the life cycle in animals.

My fifth-graders are off to a great start. We are learning poetry again this year. The whole class learned part of Ernest Lawrence Thayer's "Casey at the Bat." As a class we can recite the whole poem. Vanessa Pawlowaki can recite the entire poem herself. This week we learned Carl Sandburg's "Fog." We have tagged butterflies already and are studying about their life cycle. In math we are working with division, graphing, and fractions. We have some math puzzles that some students have had a chance to work on. Aaron Brough solved an especially difficult one. I have five different shaped pieces. When put together properly they form a square. Aaron did it. Can it be done again?

The sixth-graders are starting off their year with a reading unit on survival. This theme will be carried into their writing also. Oceanography, project and report are what's happening in science, and map skills in social studies. The sixth-graders can name all seven continents. Just ask them.

Telstar sports notes:

HIGH SCHOOL SOCCER

The Telstar varsity soccer squad picked up its second shutout of the season Friday. The Rebels (2-0) tallied two goals and held Lisbon (0-1-2) scoreless. In the first half, Tim Remington flicked the ball with his head and Rob Greenwell picked it out of the air with his instep and drove it into the right corner of the net. Remington scored off a pass from Chuck Mason in the second half.

Telstar goaltender Todd Wing had six saves and the Greyhound goaltender 27. The Rebels took 49 shots on goal, while the Telstar defense held Lisbon to just seven shots on goal.

Remington set a school record for "most shots on goal in a game." His 27 scoring attempts, beat the previous record of 15, which he had shared with Rocky Myers, class of 1982 and Bruce Barth, class of 1985.

HIGH SCHOOL CROSS-COUNTRY

Rebel runners were scoreless in last Tuesday's six-way meet with Lisbon, Dixfield, Leavitt, Mt. Abram and Mountain Valley. In the girls' meet, Amy Howe had the fourth fastest time, but her score did not count because schools must enter five runners to compete as a team and Telstar entered only two. The boys also did not have enough runners to compete. Lisbon won the boys' meet and Leavitt the girls'.

HIGH SCHOOL FIELD HOCKEY

The Rebels split a pair of hockey games last week. In the season opener at Lisbon Wednesday, the girls rolled over the Greyhounds 5-0. Kelsey Cross, Lori Davis, Cheri Myers, Angie Mills and Beth Howe each scored. Telstar took 27 shots on goal and Lisbon 2. Goaltender Jessie With had one save and the Greyhound goaltender 18. The junior varsity squad also had no trouble with Lisbon. The J.V. girls won 7-0. Harmony Mills was the high scorer with three goals.

Friday the girls lost 4-1 to Dixfield. Freshman Beth Howe scored off a penalty corner with 4-and-a-half minutes left in the game for the Rebel's only point. The Cougars took 21 shots on goal and Wight logged 20 saves. The Rebels took five shots on goal. The J.V. teams battled to a 0-0 tie.

Mahoosuc Arts notes:

The Mahoosuc Arts Council begins its seventh season this September. The 1993-94 season holds in store a wide variety of programs for SAD44 schools and communities. These programs will feature performing and visual artists and range from Maine humor to new vaudeville, inflatable sculptures, classical music, puppets, a Messiah sing, silent films, folk music, poetry, storytelling, theater, papermaking, a local artist showcase, and a steel band. Specific artists and dates will be listed in the season brochure which is being mailed to all SAD44 residents this week.

Our season opener will feature an evening of Maine humor and music with "The Wicked Good Band" on Saturday, Sept. 25, at 7 p.m. at the Helen Berry Auditorium. Tickets will be available at Preb's or by calling 824-3575.

September is also the time for the Council's annual fundraising phonathon. Volunteers help in this effort to raise funds from the community to support the Council's ongoing efforts to present programs in the arts. The Council's fundraising efforts help to keep ticket prices affordable and make the arts accessible to all.

On Columbus Day Weekend the Council, in conjunction with Sunday River, will hold another annual fundraising event, the Hike/Walk/Run up Sunday River's 3-mile trail. This event has become a seasonal favorite of both competitive runners and families alike. The first 100 registrants for the Hike/Walk/Run will receive a T-shirt and be eligible to compete for a host of prizes including a Sunday River ski package for the first overall male and female finisher. Race applications are available by calling 824-3575. Race sponsors this year include Boise Cascade, Crisp Sports, Gould Academy, Groan & McGurn, Sunday River, the Lewiston Sun-Journal, and Central Maine Power.

SOCCER, FIELD HOCKEY EVENTS AT GOULD SUNDAY

Maine independent schools will kick off their seasons with warm-up round-robin tournaments in men's soccer and women's field hockey Saturday, Sept. 18.

Gould Academy will host private school teams from around the state during the all-day event, which begins at 10 a.m.

Jamborees in golf and women's soccer will take place at Bridgton Academy and Hyde School, respectively. For more information, contact Sue Gardner at 824-2161.

SUDS CRIBBAGE WINNERS

Winners in last week's Suds lounge cribbage tournament were Gerry Parker, first; Mick Forbes, second; Larry Risko, third and Jack Taylor, fourth.

BETHEL SENIOR CITIZENS

Bethel Senior Citizens met Wednesday, Sept. 8, with 70 present at the Locke Mills Town Hall. President Helen Saunders conducted the meeting. Reporting were Barbara H. Brown, secretary; Sarah Stevens, treasurer; Muriel Faudi, sunshine; Rudy Royer, fundraising. Lindley Wieden, program chairman, read anecdotes and reported on the bus trip to Augusta Aug. 18. Thirty-five folks enjoyed a good day. It was entertaining and educational and included dinner at the Branding Iron in Winthrop. The Songo River Trip in Naples was also successful.

The annual Foliage Trip will leave from the Bethel Area Health Center at 8 a.m., Friday, Oct. 15. There will be a coffee stop in Gorham, N.H., then on to Franconia Notch for the Old Man of the Mountain and the Flume. Lunch will be at J.E. Henry's. Unfortunately the famous Lippizan Stallions, who are summering in the area, leave for their home in Florida Oct. 11, but a special stop will be made at Clark's Trading Post for the performing bears. Return trip will be through the Kancamagus Highway. For information and reservations call Helen Saunders (Raymond) or Lindley Wieden.

Celebrating birthdays were Roger Twitchell, Mary Valentine, Dorothy Thomas, Avis Doonen, Leona Find, Phyllis and Bill Bancroft, Francis Saunders, Louise Annis, Shirley Lowell and Ben Lowell.

Elizabeth Morse is recovering from an accident.

After a great buffet dinner and a cake donated by the Home Sweet Bakery, Bill Cousins gave a presentation on Habitat for Humanity. He and other teachers and students have been involved for several years spending a week in different states and cities building homes for needy families, an interesting and satisfying project.

At the group's next meeting, Dr. Hamilton will speak at Pleasant Valley Grange in West Bethel and an "Old Fashioned Harvest Dinner" will be served, for $6.

Young rockhounds wanted; intro to the hobby offered

The Oxford County Mineral and Gem Association is looking for a few good rockhounds. The club was founded in 1948. Since then membership has held fairly steady, but most members are now of retirement age, and club officials are trying to attract some new members, young and old, according to OCMGA board member Norman Davis. "The purpose of the club is for a group of like-minded people to get together, exchange information and educate people about mineral and gem collecting," Davis said. One way OCMGA is hoping to stir up the interest is to offer a comprehensive program on rocks and minerals for fledgling collectors over the next few months. "The purpose of the program part of each meeting is to help beginners better understand the properties used to identify minerals," said program coordinator Dennis Brown of Bridgton. "Hopefully, the topics will also refresh the memories of the more experienced. The intent is to have demonstrations and/or hands on participation by the members and guests as well as a talk about the topic." Some of the upcoming topics include the hardness, fluorescence and optics of minerals and the habits of mineral crystallization. A "mineral of the month" will also be featured at each meeting. Club members will display the minerals, so that beginners and guests can get a feel for what they may find in the field. A brief description of the mineral and its properties will also be given. Quartz, for example, will be featured in September. Another way the club is hoping to attract members is by changing its meeting night from the fourth Thursday to the first Friday of the month, so that meetings are not held on school nights. The group also occasionally organizes rock collecting trips and has hosted a gem show every July for the past 32 years. For the last two summers, the show has been held at Telstar High School. The next meeting is scheduled for Thursday, Sept. 23. The program will be on the hardness of minerals. Friday night meetings begin Nov. 5. November's mineral of the month is feldspar, and the program is on the optical properties of minerals. The meetings are open to everyone, and are held at the Newry home of Norman and Eleanor Davis at 7 p.m. Refreshments are potluck. Anyone interested in more information about meeting dates and future programs can contact Davis evenings at 824-2844.

Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce

The location of the Business After Hours, scheduled for Monday, Sept. 27, has been changed to the Sunday River Brewing Company on the corners of Route 2 and the Sunday River Road. All members are invited to join in the fun from 5:30-7:30 p.m. Light munchies and beverages will be provided. Welcome to the chamber's newest member, The Ski House, Ralph Berube owner, on Route 2. Volunteers are off to the Eastern States Exposition in West Springfield, Mass. to represent the Maine Lakes and Mountains Region. The Bethel area is working together with seven other chambers in our region on this project. Members Bill and Ernestine Riley are volunteers for our chamber. Members Bruce and Shirley Powell of Stony Brook Campground in Hanover are traveling to Halifax, Nova Scotia next week to represent the chamber at the Ski Atlantic Show. Many thanks to the Powells and the Rileys for taking time out of their busy lives to do these shows. All members who are interested in discussing the feasibility of a shuttle between Sunday River and locations within the Bethel area this winter are invited to attend a meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 21, at 3:30 p.m. at the Bethel Inn. Dick Armstrong of Western Maine Transportation will be in attendance to present some options to the business people. Congratulations to the Unicorn Flower Shop on the completion of their addition and to member Bethel Frame Shop for the great new location in that building. The board of directors will be meeting Thursday morning at 7:30 a.m. at the Bethel Area Health Center for the regular monthly meeting.

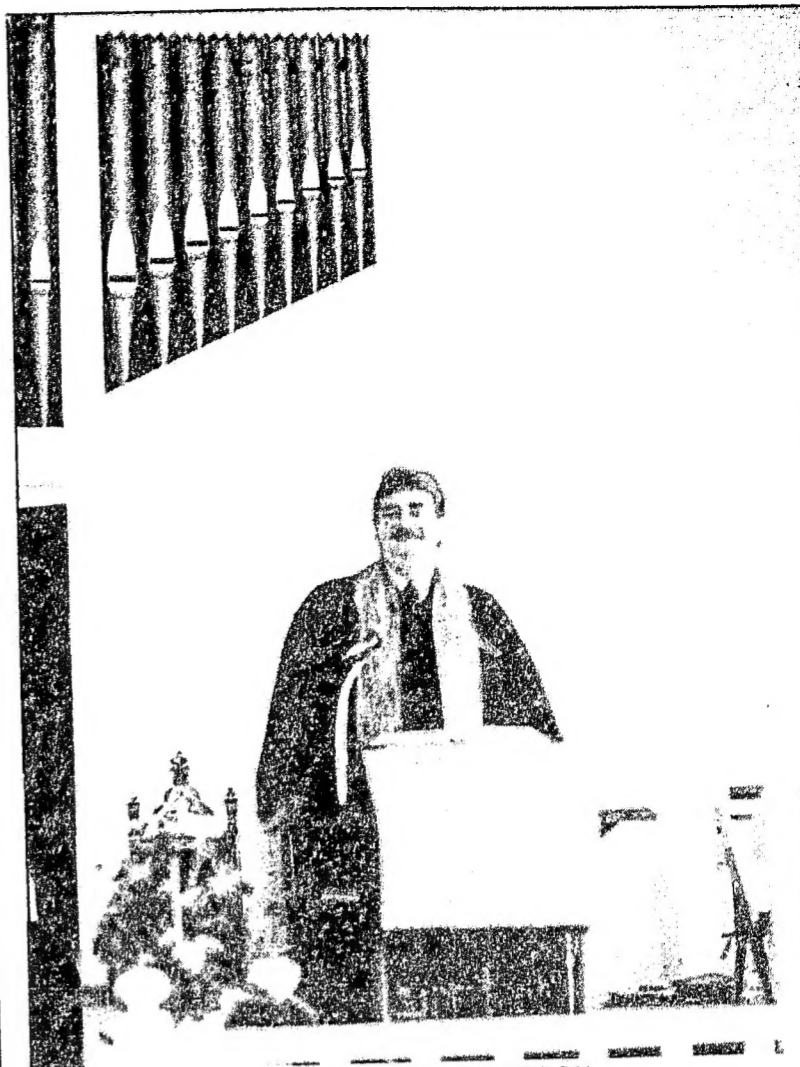

Task Force notes:

The next meeting of the Bethel Area Task Force will be on Sunday, Sept. 19, 7 p.m. at the NTL Conference House. The Task Force last met on Aug. 15. A report was given by Gwyneth Bohr and Maria Termini who, along with Jonathan Goldberg, had recently participated in a Future Search Conference in Boston. This conference on community development had involved community leaders from across the country in discussions of key issues of the past three decades and envisioning plans for the future. On Sept. 1 the Task Force hosted, at John Shorb's house, a well-attended party for NTL members. The next meeting will be important, summarizing the '93 NTL season and deciding what the Task Force's next priorities will be. New leaders for the group will be elected. All interested folks are invited to attend--7 p.m., Sunday, Sept. 19, NTL Conference House.

NOTES FROM

Adult Education

Adult Education of the Telstar Region will offer several safety classes during the month of September, including motorcycle safety, driving dynamics (formerly defensive driving), airbrake adjustment certification and hunter safety. Motorcycle Safety will be held on Saturday, Sept. 25 from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at Telstar High School in cooperation with Daigle's Driving School. The course fee is $60. The course is mandatory for all age groups seeking to obtain a permit. Driving Dynamics will be taught on Sept. 20 and 22 from 6:30 to 9 p.m. at Telstar by Eddy Naples of NOVA. In addition, insurance companies may offer a rate reduction for completion of this course. The fee is $25; $5 for those 65 and older. Airbrake Adjustment Certification is designed to meet the requirements of the new rule requiring motor carrier employees in charge of inspection, maintenance and repair of brakes to be certified. NOVA's Eddy Naples will cover basic airbrake systems and will include lab time. The course will be held at Telstar on Saturday, Sept. 25 from 8 to 11 a.m. The fee is $25. Hunter Safety will be offered during the last two weeks in September. Classroom time will be held on Tuesdays and Thursdays, Sept. 21, 23, 28 and 20 from 6 to 8 p.m. at Telstar. Family budgeting is the topic of a five-week course scheduled for Tuesday mornings, starting Sept. 21 at the Adult Learning Center from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. Bob and Lorraine Johnson are the instructors for this hands-on course which will assist participants in exploring better ways to manage their finances. The course will combine class discussion with practical work to determine where money goes, wise spending, managing cash flow, and use of credit. The fee is $15 per family, with scholarships available in cases of financial need. Dried flower arranging will be the topic of a hands-on seminar sponsored by Adult Education on Monday, Sept. 27, from 6 to 8:30 p.m. at the Unicorn Flower Shop. Ann Friedlander will cover air drying techniques, as well as the mechanics of designing creative arrangements. Each student will complete a dried arrangement using a wide variety of materials available. The fee for the session is $30 which includes all supplies. There is limited enrollment in this class. Succeeding in Small Business is the title of an exciting series of five seminars to be offered by Adult Education on Tuesday evenings from 7 to 9 at Telstar High School starting Sept. 28. The series is being coordinated by Nicky Howell of the Bethel Savings Bank and is designed to provide a wealth of information for those in business or for anyone contemplating starting a small business. REV. HENRY NICKERSON

United Methodist Church celebrates 100th anniversary

The Bethel United Methodist Church will celebrate this year's 100th anniversary of its "new" building with an Old Home Sunday on Sept. 19. The original Methodist Church was built during 1859 and 1860. It was destroyed by a cyclone in 1891 and there are no pictures of the original structure. Following the cyclone, several fundraisers were held, and with help from other churches in town, the present Methodist Church was built at a cost of $5,000. The new church was dedicated on Feb. 15, 1893. In 1915, the building was raised about four feet and a basement was added. The Old Home Sunday service will begin at 10:30 a.m. and will feature four alumni organist and pianists. Several former choir members have also been asked to sing with the present choir. Refreshments will be served following the service. The Methodist Church also has a new minister this year. Rev. Henry Nickerson joined the church early this summer. He is a 1979 graduate of the Bangor Theological Seminary and holds a bachelor's degree from East Bridgewater State College in history and education. He was ordained as a deacon in 1978 and elder in 1980. He comes to Bethel from the Eastern and Mars Hills United Methodist churches.

AFTER FIVE CLUB

The Western Maine After 5 Club will hold their monthly meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 21 at 6:30 p.m. at Goldstreet Restaurant in South Paris. The special feature will be provided by Pamela Libby of Maine Mountain Confections, demonstrating candy making. Debby Grant will entertain with music, and the speaker will be Dorothea Preston from Hillsboro, N.H. Reservations are necessary and can be made by calling Martha at 743-0260, Ellen at 647-8183, or Debby at 836-3763. Cost is $7.50 inclusive. Please reserve by Sept. 17. Everyone is welcome.

ATV TRAINING COURSE

An all-terrain vehicle safety and training course will be held at Telstar High on Saturday, Sept. 18 from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. The course is open to those age 10 and up. Children age 10 and 11 must be accompanied by an adult. Course instructor is Perry Edwards.

THOUGHTS FROM THE Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, brings you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words comfort and hope for your daily life.

"Give unto the Lord the glory due unto his name; worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness" Psalm 19:2.

When we consider the subject of worship, we enter into an area which affects every man, woman and child. Whatever consumes our time, our devotion, our energy and our money may become our object of worship, be it true worship or idolatry. Jesus Christ said, "where your treasure is, there will your heart be also" (Matthew 6:21).

The only legitimate Object of our heart's devotion and worship is the Lord God who created us. We are commanded throughout all of the Scriptures to "worship Him that made heaven, and earth, and the sea, and the fountains of waters" (Revelation 14:7). When the Lord Jesus was tempted to worship the fowl and fallen angel Lucifer, Jesus responded with holy indignation, "Get thee hence, Satan: for it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve" (Matthew 4:10).

Idolatry has always been a trap for fallen humanity. Israel of old was enticed to worship a golden calf after the Lord had delivered them from the slavery and bondage of Egypt. The majority of the kings of Israel and Judah led their people to the idolatrous groves of false worship. Rome and Greece bear loud testimony to the continual craving to worship gods of our making. Mythological deities such as Zeus, Apollo and Aphrodite are just a few examples. Sadly, the history of the professing Christian church bears its own guilt in this area, as it has been notorious in its construction of shrines and statues. This cannot be denied for the worship of statues is happening even today in places such as Cap-De-La-Madeleine, Quebec where a shrine is erected to inspire the worship of a statue of Mary.

All idolatry will bring some judgment for it denies rightful and true worship to the Living God who alone deserves it. We must also add that many people are involved in worshipping the creation rather than the Creator. "Professing themselves to be wise, they became fools, and changed the glory of the incorruptible God into an image made like to corruptible man, and to birds, and four-footed beasts, and creeping things" (Romans 1:22-23). Today in this country we are witnessing a revival of Nature-Worship, much of which comes in the guise of environmental and New Age religious groups. We certainly have a responsibility to preserve the purity of this planet earth, but to call it our "Mother" and bend the knee in homage to it is sheer idolatry!

May we "worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness," for He alone is worthy to receive all glory, honor and praise. Realize that God must be worshipped in Spirit and in truth. Sin has separated each of us from a Holy God (Isaiah 59:2, Romans 3:23). But God in the fullness of time sent His Beloved Son, Jesus Christ to "reconciled us to Himself... for he (God) hath made him (Jesus Christ) to be sin for us, who knew no sin; that we might be made the righteousness of God in him" (2 Corinthians 5:17-21). Believe upon the Lord Jesus Christ and His sacrificial death on the Cross as the payment for your sins and you too will be a new creature, born of the Spirit of God. Then you will know the deep and abiding joy of true worship and be like the Christians of Thessalonica, who "turned to God from idols to serve the living and true God" (1 Thess. 1:9).
